Cash Prizes to be Awarded at Oklahoma City Dollar Dash
Jump$tart Coalition Hosts Second Annual Scavenger Hunt

OKLAHOMA CITY (April 18, 2016) – The Oklahoma Jump$tart Coalition will kick off Jump$tart Your Money Week with the second annual Oklahoma City Dollar Dash on Saturday, April 23 in Bricktown from 8:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

“During this free event, teams will participate in a scavenger hunt competition throughout Bricktown for the chance to win cash prizes,” said Tabatha Thurman, race coordinator.

Each team will need access to a camera and Twitter account to participate. There will be team prizes for first through third place and giveaways from Bricktown businesses, said Thurman.

“This event is a fun way to promote financial literacy and encourage Oklahomans to make wise financial decisions in the coming year,” said Melissa Neal, Oklahoma Jump$tart president. “It’s a great lead into a week full of Jump$tart Your Money events.”

Participants can register for the Dollar Dash at www.okcdollardash.eventbrite.com. For more information about the event or registration, contact Tabatha Thurman at tabathat@weokie.org.

The Oklahoma Jump$tart Coalition is a nonprofit organization comprised of businesses, individuals, financial institutions, tribal entities, K-12 schools, higher education campuses and government and non-profit agencies who believe that basic personal financial literacy is an essential skills for all Oklahomans. The coalition works collectively to educate and empower youth and adults with information and resources necessary to make informed financial decisions.
